Teaching Assistant Professor (NTT)
Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering
Colorado State University

The Department of Civil and Environmental (CEE) Engineering at Colorado State University invites applications for a non-tenure track, full-time faculty as a Teaching Assistant Professor. The role of this position is to support the educational mission of the CEE Department in providing high-quality instruction in undergraduate engineering. This position will be expected to teach courses in the CEE undergraduate core curriculum.

The primary purpose of this Teaching Assistant Professor position is to support the CEE Department's teaching of core engineering mechanics courses including statics, dynamics, and mechanics of solids. The ability to teach other required undergraduate courses including but not limited to the introductory first-year courses, civil engineering materials, structural analysis, concrete and steel design, and senior design is desired. The Teaching Assistant Professor will join a collegial group of committed faculty, will teach/co-teach a maximum of three academic courses per semester, and is expected to provide guidance and leadership for undergraduate education within these areas.

Minimum Qualifications:
- Candidates must have earned BS and PhD degrees in Civil Engineering, Architectural Engineering, and/or Structural Engineering, (PhD must be earned at the time of appointment)
- Documented experience and/or evidence of the ability to teach undergraduate civil engineering courses
- A demonstrated commitment to high-quality undergraduate engineering education in the classroom.

Preferred Qualifications:
- Documented experience teaching or the potential to teach a breadth of courses as described in the position announcement
- Licensure as a Professional (Civil) Engineer (PE)

Full Consideration Deadline: November 27, 2020.
