“Access to Health from the Ground Up: A Community Partnership in Nigeria”

Friday, May 20th

Tech E311

3:30-4:30PM

Is there a human right to health? If so, how is it realized? This talk describes the work of the Northwestern Access to Health Project in Nigeria. Access to Health is an interdisciplinary, global health community-based partnership that seeks to design and implement sustainable, capacity-building interventions that empower communities to realize the highest attainable standard of health.
